

SEND

SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL NEEDS AND DISABILITY

Welcome

to the Summer term issue of our SEND newsletter! This term's edition has a training focus as we are prioritising how we can provide CPD to support you use LGfL to support SEND. This term, we have already supported almost 150 teachers use LGfL resources through awareness and training sessions. To date, almost 500 staff working in London schools have signed up to this bulletin which provides an update on the LGfL resources and support available to support pupils with SEND. To sign up to receive this bulletin directly, or if you have any queries, please email send@lgfl.net. We will be back in touch in early October with our next newsletter which will be focussing on all the new SEND resources launching before The TES SEND show at the London Business Design Centre on 7th-8th October. Have a wonderful Summer!

LGfL Annual Conference 2016
On 11th April, we were delighted to present information about upcoming and current LGfL SEND content at the annual LGfL conference. Our speakers included Sally Paveley, ICT teacher at The Bridge school, who described the innovative and creative ways in which she and other staff are using LGfL resources such as Audio Networks, Busy Things and Me Online to support pupils of all ages with SEND. Jayne Garner, managing director at Axis Education, provided an overview of their Employability resource, which will be available on LGfL soon. We are extremely grateful to Sally and Jayne for their excellent contributions.

Jo Dilworth, LGfL SEND consultant
John Galloway, ICT and SEN advisor, Tower Hamlets and SEN advisor on The LGfL editorial board.

A new SEND site within LGfL has now launched!

This can be navigated to from the main LGfL site at www.lgfl.net and can be accessed directly at www.send.lgfl.net. This site contains:

ABOUT SEND AT LGfL

Information about how we support SEND at LGfL, news and case studies. To contribute your own case studies on how you are using LGfL to support pupils with SEND, please let us know by filling out this form: <https://lgfl.wufoo.eu/forms/send-case-study/>

SEND LEARNING RESOURCES

Information about resources available and in development to support; Attention and Listening; Sensory and Physical Needs; Communication and Interaction; Cognition and Learning and Social, Emotional and Mental Health

RECOMMENDED LINKS

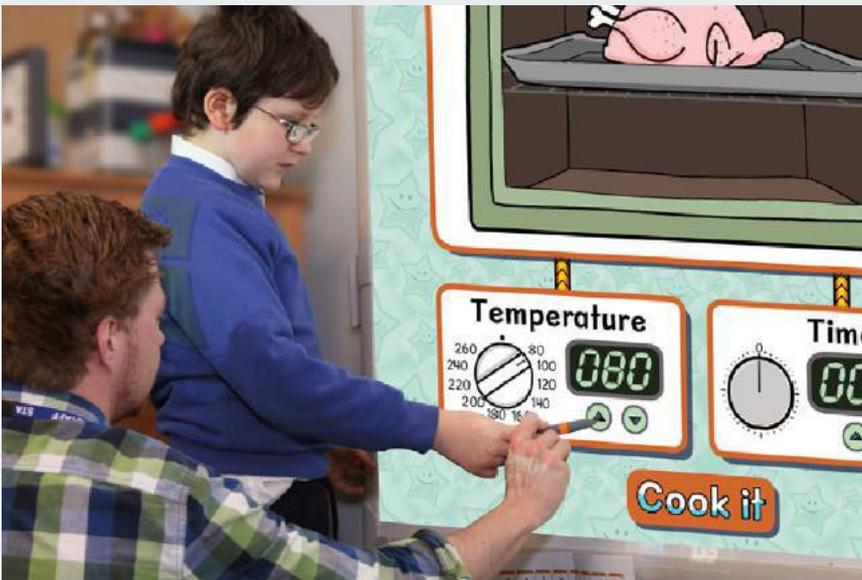

Information including recommended websites, resources and LGfL discounts developed by organisations, staff and schools that work with LGfL

Go to www.send.lgfl.net to find out more.

For further information on SEND related content and developments, please contact send@lgfl.org.uk

SEND GOES DIGITAL! INSPIRATIONAL PRIMARY TEACHING FOR ALL.

Exploring diverse and inclusive online LGfL resources for maximising the learning and development of pupils with SEND.

Date: 4 October 2016
Time: 9.30am - 3.30pm
Venue: Camden CLC
Cost: Normally £299+VAT
FREE to teachers from
LGfL TRUSTnet schools

Browse our courses
and book a place at
training.lgfl.net

OVERVIEW

The course will include training on a range of inclusive resources and how they can be used to support pupils with SEND. The full day course will include hands-on training, school success stories and whole and small-group discussions on how to use digital for the greatest impact for pupils with SEND.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This one-day training day is valuable for SENDCOs and inclusion managers, teachers and teaching assistants supporting pupils with SEND, speech and language therapists, and any other staff with an interest in supporting pupils with SEND.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

By the end of the day, you will be ready to incorporate the following resources into your everyday classroom practice in order to better support the needs of your learners with SEND:

- ✓ The award-winning Early Shakespeare and Fairytales.
- ✓ Audio Network: a database of music tracks that support multisensory learning.
- ✓ Look, Think, Do: a social communication resource created in London
- ✓ j2e Tool Suite: including features ideal for supporting those with SEND to produce work that reflects their ability.
- ✓ The BETT award-winning 'Busy Things'
- ✓ Others including Talking Stories, Ebooks and Early Vision, plus SEND-specific materials.

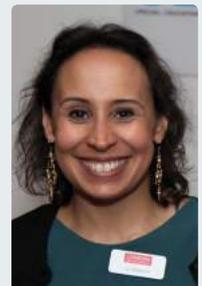

HOW WILL IT CHANGE MY TEACHING?

The course will provide you with knowledge of a range of materials to support inclusive and multisensory learning in your school. It will enable you to support many different areas of SEN, such as cognition and learning, communication and interaction, sensory and physical development and social, emotional and mental health.

THE TRAINER

JO DILWORTH

Jo Dilworth is the LGfL SEND consultant. She has worked with the LGfL community since 2002, most recently developing the Look, Think, Do resource for students with autism.

A qualified teacher with a post-graduate certificate in autism, Jo has supported pupils with SEND in both mainstream and specialist schools, and publishes a termly newsletter for the SEND education community.

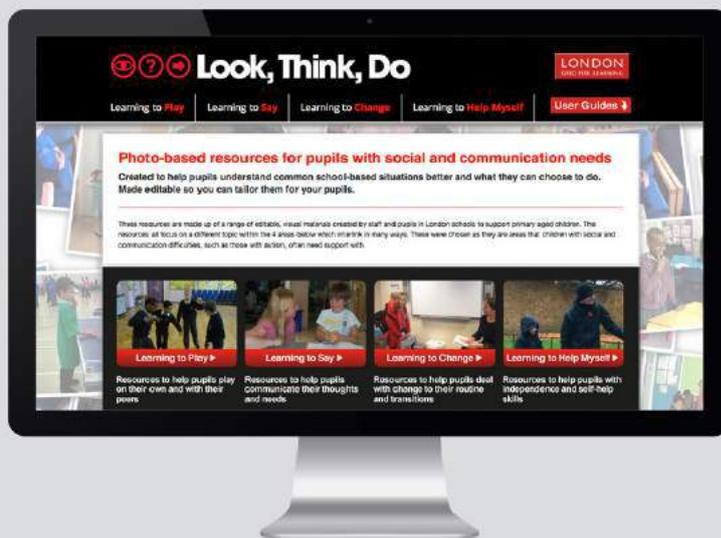

She works alongside John Galloway (Tower Hamlets) and the LGfL team and Editorial Board to evaluate, procure and develop SEND-related content.

SEND play a role in Jo's life beyond office hours, too, as she helps to run support groups for parents of girls with autism.

Secure your limited place now: training.lgfl.net

SEND GOES DIGITAL! INSPIRATIONAL SECONDARY TEACHING FOR ALL.

Exploring diverse and inclusive online LGfL resources for maximising the learning and development of pupils with SEND.

OVERVIEW

The course will include training on a range of inclusive resources and how they can be used to support pupils with SEND. The full day course will include hands-on training, school success stories and whole and small-group discussions on how to use digital for the greatest impact for pupils with SEND.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This one-day training day is valuable for SENDCOs and inclusion managers, teachers and teaching assistants supporting pupils with SEND, speech and language therapists, and any other staff with an interest in supporting pupils with SEND.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

By the end of the day, you will be ready to incorporate the following resources into your everyday classroom practice in order to better support the needs of your learners with SEND:

- ✓ Assistive technology tool Word Q Speak Q, which helps students with SEND communicate, particularly in exams
- ✓ The award-winning Early Shakespeare
- ✓ Audio Network, a database of music tracks that support multisensory learning
- ✓ Axis Education's Employability resource
- ✓ j2e Tool Suite: supporting those with SEND to produce work to match their ability
- ✓ The BETT award-winning 'Busy Things'
- ✓ Others including Ebooks, Whoami logins, video conferencing tools

HOW WILL IT CHANGE MY TEACHING?

The course will provide you with knowledge of a range of materials to support inclusive and multisensory learning in your school. It will enable you to support many different areas of SEN, such as cognition and learning, communication and interaction, sensory and physical development and social, emotional and mental health.

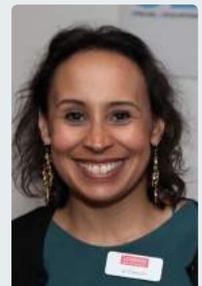

Date: 18 October 2016
Time: 9.30am - 3.30pm
Venue: Camden CLC
Cost: Normally £299+VAT
FREE to teachers from
LGfL TRUSTnet schools

Browse our courses
and book a place at
training.lgfl.net

THE TRAINER

JO DILWORTH

Jo Dilworth is the LGfL SEND consultant. She has worked with the LGfL community since 2002, most recently developing the Look, Think, Do resource for students with autism.

A qualified teacher with a post-graduate certificate in autism, Jo has supported pupils with SEND in both mainstream and specialist schools, and publishes a termly newsletter for the SEND education community.

She works alongside John Galloway (Tower Hamlets) and the LGfL team and Editorial Board to evaluate, procure and develop SEND-related content.

SEND play a role in Jo's life beyond office hours, too, as she helps to run support groups for parents of girls with autism.

Secure your limited place now: training.lgfl.net

SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL NEEDS AND COMPUTING – PERFECT PARTNERS?

Exploring diverse and inclusive online resources to help pupils with SEND access Computing and online-safety education.

Date: 6 December 2016
Time: 9.30am - 3.30pm
Venue: Camden CLC
Cost: Normally £299+VAT
FREE to teachers from
LGfL TRUSTnet schools

Browse our courses
and book a place at
training.lgfl.net

OVERVIEW

This full-day course includes training on a range of inclusive resources and how they can be used to support pupils with SEND in relation to online safety and Computing.

- ✓ Overview and discussion of the entitlement that pupils with SEND have to the Computing curriculum, as well as the opportunities and challenges it presents
- ✓ Hands on training for resources such as the j2e Tool Suite, Busy Things and Cyberpass
- ✓ Overview of case studies and school-based examples of use
- ✓ Whole and small-group discussions on how you may use these resources to support your pupils with SEND.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This one-day training day is for staff teaching Computing to learners with SEND in any setting, as well as SENDCOs, inclusion managers and anyone else with an interest in encouraging inclusion across Computing and online safety.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

Attendees will learn how to make the most of the resources they already have, as well as all about the issues affecting Computing and online safety for students with SEND.

HOW WILL IT CHANGE MY TEACHING?

The course will provide you with a greater knowledge of the issues surrounding access to the Computing curriculum and online-safety messages for learners with SEND, and how LGfL can help you help these learners access skills and knowledge in your school.

PLEASE NOTE

There will be ample opportunities to sample resources and enter discussions with other SEND specialists. E-mail special requests to send@lgfl.org.uk at least a week in advance.

THE TRAINER

JO DILWORTH

Jo Dilworth is the LGfL SEND consultant. She has worked with the LGfL community since 2002, most recently developing Look, Think, Do for students with autism.

A qualified teacher with a post-graduate certificate in autism, Jo has supported pupils with SEND in both mainstream and specialist schools, and publishes a termly newsletter for the SEND education community.

JOHN GALLOWAY

John Galloway is the London Borough of Tower Hamlets' ICT and SEN advisor, as well as a published author and journalist. He is a longstanding member of the LGfL community and the SEND representative on the LGfL Editorial Board.

Secure your limited place now: training.lgfl.net