THE TRAINER

JO DILWORTH

Jo Dilworth is the LGfL SEND consultant. She has worked with the LGfL community since 2002, most recently developing Look, Think, Do for students with autism.

A qualified teacher with a post-graduate certificate in autism, Jo has supported pupils with SEND in both mainstream and specialist schools, and publishes a termly newsletter for the SEND education community.

JOHN GALLOWAY

John Galloway is the London Borough of Tower Hamlets' ICT and SEN advisor, as well as a published author and journalist. He is a longstanding member of the LGfL community and the SEND representative on the LGfL Editorial Board.

OVERVIEW

This full-day course includes training on a range of inclusive resources and how they can be used to support pupils with SEND in relation to online safety and Computing.

✔ Overview and discussion of the entitlement that pupils with SEND have to the Computing curriculum, as well as the opportunities and challenges it presents

✔ Hands on training for resources such as the j2e Tool Suite, Busy Things, Cyberpass and Audio Network

✔ Overview of case studies and school-based examples of use

✔ Whole and small-group discussions on how you may use these resources to support your pupils with SEND.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This one-day training day is for staff teaching Computing to learners with SEND in any setting, as well as SENDCOs, inclusion managers and anyone else with an interest in encouraging inclusion across Computing and online safety.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

Attendees will learn how to make the most of the resources they already have, as well as all about the issues affecting Computing and online safety for students with SEND.

HOW WILL IT CHANGE MY TEACHING?

The course will provide you with a greater knowledge of the issues surrounding access to the Computing curriculum and online-safety messages for learners with SEND, and how LGfL can help you help these learners access skills and knowledge in your school.

PLEASE NOTE

There will be ample opportunities to sample resources and enter discussions with other SEND specialists. E-mail special requests to send@lgfl.org.uk at least a week in advance.
